The Debenham Project

Christmas Greetings from Bleak House

The Message of Christmas and the Hope for the New Year

Nice to be back to normal has different nuance this year
Not finishing a period of celebration, but casting off covid-fear

But what is normal? A regular routine?

For some that is a heavy task; loved ones to nurse, or perhaps constant pain to be borne. Normal carries with it the potential of finding, round every corner, suffering or pleasure – or, boringly, just “more of the same”.

The art of living in “normality is to finding every situation the opportunity to love and to care.

Patrick Cotton: Rector (exeunt) of Debenham

With all our hearts we wish you safety, comfort, and joy this Christmas and that you will be able to look forward to a wonderful Springtime when we can, once again, meet together.

Love and all our best wishes,

Lynden and Sue
